

Do We Fear God

Clint Lowery

The seconds taste like falling rain
It's almost chemical
The dreams we chase, a nightmare race
We deem so critical
And I believe we're all just scared
I see so much of me in them
The more we say, the less we grow

We use our words to close the doors
We're in and out, we live and die
We breach the walls to save our souls
Do we fear God? Do we fear God?

Would you ask my name if my weathered face
Was less than beautiful?
In this shallow place, we become the slaves
On a selfish pedestal
And I believe we're all just scared
It takes so much from you to give
The less we say the more we hold

We use our words to close the doors
We're in and out, we live and die
We breach the walls to save our souls
Do we fear God? Do we fear God?

We whisper something cruel
About everything and everyone
Am I the only one? I'm the only one
I'm not the only one

We use our words to close the doors
We're in and out, we live and die

We use our words to close the doors
We're in and out, we live and die
We breach the walls to save our souls
Do we fear God? Do we fear God?

Do we fear God? Do we fear God?
Do we fear God? Do we fear God?