

Oh God, This Is War

Close Your Eyes

The morning that he left, his angel cried
Tears now flowing down from the corners of her eyes
She thought what he could be, a great man in his life
If he could just make it through these dark and lonely nights

Oh God, give him strength, the strength to find his way
The strength to find the sunrise of each new day
Oh God, make him brave, when he's under attack
He will see tomorrow

The feelings that she felt now echo in her dreams
She wishes she could sleep but thinks of other things
She thought what he could be, a great man in his life
If he could just make it through these dark and lonely nights

Oh God, give him strength, the strength to find his way
The strength to find the sunrise of each new day
Oh God, make him brave, when he's under attack
He will see tomorrow

Will the tears that we cry and the prayers that we pray
Be enough to pull you through?
The hope to see you again remains inside our hearts
We miss you more each day, but our love won't fade
It's all that brings us through
Despite all the miles keeping us apart

Oh God, give us strength, the strength to find the way
The strength to find the sunrise of each new day
Oh God, make us brave, when we're under attack
We will see tomorrow
We will see tomorrow
We will see tomorrow

Lead him home
I can't make it alone
Lead him home