When I die I'll die with my mercy, when she cries I'll cry with her, in my life See I've loved an angel My mercy my mercy Such a glance, the softest of skin Wax dripping, so paper thin Remember oils, positions of plenty Well this memory, how it still haunts me We are love We are love When I die, I'll die with my mercy And when she cries, I'll cry with her And in my life, see I've loved an angel My mercy eternal to me We are love, we are made of many We are two, we are made of few You've taken my life and left me to blame You will never understand the shame I will die for my mercy, can't you see Eternally eternally We are love, we are made of many We are two, we are made of few We are made of few
