

Let Me Love You

Coasts

I see your shadow on the bedroom floor
You hide your breath, but I know you've been drinking
I know we've both been here before
I pick you up and wrap, my arms around you

When it feels like it's getting too much
You know you've got someone to lean on
You feel like you've run out of luck
Just know, just know

If you just open up your eyes
You'll see the sun begin to rise
Why don't you let me love you?
So lose yourself in me tonight
And in that moment feel alive
Why can't you let me love you?

Is that your blood upon the pillow dear?
It's like our ship is being steered by a stranger
So it speaks so many secrets
So hold my hand and we'll walk the horizon

When it feels like it's getting too much
You know you've got someone to lean on

If you just open up your eyes
You'll see the sun begin to rise
Why don't you let me love you?
So lose yourself in me tonight
And in that moment feel alive
Why can't you let me love you?

When it feels like it's getting too much
You know you've got someone to lean on
When it feels like it's getting too much
You know you've got someone to lean on

If you just open up your eyes
You'll see the sun begin to rise
Why don't you let me love you?
So lose yourself in me tonight
And in that moment feel alive
Why can't you let me love you?

If you just open up your eyes
You'll see the sun begin to rise
Why don't you let me love you?
So lose yourself in me tonight
And in that moment feel alive
Why can't you let me love you?

Why can't you let me love you?
Why can't you let me love you?
