

Faith In Tomorrow

Cobi

Another sad song, 'cause I'm weary and I'm worn
I've had a hard time, going through it all alone
It's so heavy to carry the weight bearing on my soul
Still drunk off a moment, still numb from the cold

I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing
I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing

It's like I broke down in the middle of the road
On the way to all of my high hopes
Playing "Goodnight Irene" on the old stereo
Still drunk off a moment, still numb from the cold
Still numb from the cold (still numb from the cold)

I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing
I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing

My father said, "Never give into the pain"
He'd say, "You gotta live as hard as you can to the grave"
Yeah, yeah, yeah

I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing
I need some strength for the sorrow
Oh please lend a hand
I need some faith in tomorrow
Somebody help me sing
