

Love is no matter of time
It has no tricks, no magic wands
It just strikes you from behind
And gets you blessed and full of grace
But when the planets don't align
It leaves you floored, thirsty to death
I've got a lot on my mind
All we've been through, all that we said

Now there will always be a song
A song to remind me of you
That we can sing when we feel alone
And there's nothing else to do

So take it easy on me, bird
I'm trying hard to understand
Don't tell me how to keep my word
When there is so much left unsaid
Cause I backtracked and I've found
Myself alone shouting your name
And I won't say I loved you first
I'm just the man who loved you best

Now there will always be a song
A song to remind me of you
That we can sing when we feel alone
And there's nothing else to do

And there will always be a song
A song to remind me of you
That we can sing when we feel alone
And there's nothing else to do
And it's sad but it's true

And it's sad but it's true
