

Things You Said

Cody Fry

I was walking in the woods one day
Trying to keep the ghosts at bay
Then I thought I saw your face but it was just leaves
I see you in the strangest things
Your voice in every bird that sings
Can they hear it echoing or is that just me?

I don't believe in haunted houses
But I still see you there on the bed
You didn't leave me much but the things you said
They stayed, they stayed

I was driving through the streets one night
At the corner with the bar you like
I thought I saw the car you drive but it wasn't green
These neighborhoods all look the same
That's why you had to move away
When people ask that's what I say
But they know I'm lying

I don't know who lives in these houses
But you still live inside of my head
You didn't leave me much but the things you said
They stayed, they stayed

I still see you
You still see me
But we don't see each other anymore
I still love you
You still love me
But we can't love each other anymore
Can we?

I don't believe in haunted houses
But I still see you there on the bed
I wish I hadn't said all the things I said
