

Beware

Colin Blunstone

How hard to move away from these ascending years
No bitter pill was swallowed without pain
But love lies deeper when it fails to shed a tear
And how I worry for your happiness again

Beware, as we wander through the years
Beware, that you keep your heart from fears
Take care my love
To share your love

And though the roads be long
I'll say goodbye and I was wrong
And I've been loving you too long
But now I love you more than ever
So beware

So hard to be alone with these forgotten dreams
No bitterness could drive away the tears
No other one will take the place you have inside
I know the memories will last a million years

Beware and I know your heart will sing
Beware for I wish you everything
Take care, my love
To share your love

And though the roads be long
I'll say goodbye and I was wrong
And I've been loving you too long
But now I love you more than ever

So beware my love
