

On My Way Back To You

Colin James

I've been walking, the whole night through
Theirs a trail of tears, between me and you.
I'm not saying anything, anything that isn't true.
Cause your memory, takes away the pain,
Works me over, over and over again.
This ain't nothing new, I'm on my way back to you.
I'm looking down a stairway, I'm standing at the gate.
At the corner of the road, but its way too late,
And I'm just another shadow.
A shadow in the shade of blue

And your voice, you know the sound.
Inside my head, this time around.
Though I want to make it through.
I'm on my way back to you.

On my way back I see everything behind me.
I want it all back, every second without you.
I take each step, till I can't stand,
Because the answer is close at hand.
Its coming into view, I'm on my way back to you.

Our house is the same house, with a different door.
I can't tell the difference, I can't tell anymore,
And I'm looking for the spark, that was there at start.
I'm looking for the truth

But the truth is you, stare me in the face,
And its a part of me I couldn't replace.
Now I know just what to do, I'm on my way back to you.
This ain't nothing new I'm on my way back to you.
Well its coming into view, I'm on my way back to you.
I'm on my way back to you
