Changed

Collective Soul

You told me time and time
With pride, I just ignored
I was precious in the flesh
Still bitter through the core
As this night breathes slow
And the Earth makes no sound
There's comfort in this moment
Of the man I am now

When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be holding you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed
When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be loving you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed

All the complications
That were mine and mine alone
You were patient in the seasons
Of which I learned to grow
I'm giving my confession
As this day closes down
There's reason for my comfort
It's the man you made me now

When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be holding you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed
When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be loving you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed

Winter's turning into spring
Blooming hope for me to sing of love
Summer burns while fall concedes
Leaving me with words to sing of love

When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be holding you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed

When the morning breaks
When the morning breaks
I'll be holding you, girl
'Cause I'm a man that changed
When the morning breaks
I'll be loving you, girl
