

Sunday school just kicked me out
It's a Tuesday afternoon
A perfect storm now percolates
With thoughts of new and used
Been chasing after shadows
Chasing what, who really knows?
Been catching up to nothing
Catching up on T.V. shows

There's a reason to explore
There's a reason to contain
There's a reason always
So they say
There's a reason for some lies
There's a reason for some truth
There's a reason, babe, for me and you

Head lights beam no view is clear
It's a sunny afternoon
The tires. They roar and stimulate
My mind's been battered and bruised
Driving in the open
Driving hot to nowhere
Been braking with my conscience
Been breaking up with joy and fear

There's a reason to explore
There's a reason to contain
There's a reason always
So they say
There's a reason for some lies
There's a reason for some truth
There's a reason, babe, for me and you

There's a reason to explore
There's a reason to contain
There's a reason always
So they say
There's a reason for some lies
There's a reason for some truth
There's a reason, babe, for me and you

There's a reason to explore
There's a reason to contain
There's a reason always
So they say
There's a reason for some lies
There's a reason for some truth
There's a reason, babe, for me and you