Role Reversal

Confide

I’ve been looking for,
looking for the tag that’s been tied around my neck.
I’ve been searching for,
searching for an identity that’s found in You.
Because I know there’s times when I feel your afar and there’s times when I know I am further and there’s times when I really feel I’m al ive and there’s times when I feel there’s no-one in sight.

Recently we’ve been holding on to everyone’s last breath,
And letting it replay in our head.

I realized I was in too deep.
You never had to explain yourself to me.

How can we hide from our cold insides?
I can’t live side by side the description you’re giving me.
I find myself in something bigger than the size of your lips.

Take a step back, hold your thoughts.
It was never too easy for you.
I’ve found a peace in silence, as I listen, I’m lost for though t.

Recently we’ve been holding on to everyone’s last breath,
And letting it replay in our head.

How can we hide from our cold insides?
How can we hide from the one who never blinks?
