Tried so hard to cut you out Like a piece of paper The weight of carrying this around Is heavy on my shoulder And all this time On different lines Worlds away You are falling Open sky I'd risk my life just to feel Anything but nothing But what I want is what is real My head and heart are fighting And all this time On different lines Worlds away You are falling Now looking down from high above But you're too far for me to touch You can't see me Only sky Only sky I'm here all-alone Where time is frozen still Where were you when I need you most Cause the clouds are closing in Now looking down from high above But you're too far for me to touch You can't see me Only sky And I wish that you were just like god Don't leave me losing in between You can't see me Only sky Only sky Only sky Only sky