

Nobody's Fool

Connie Talbot

I saw the messages to her,
They say you don't need me anymore,
Can't say that it didn't hurt.
So now, I'm finding someone new,
Who's gonna treat me better than you,
I'm so happy, that we're finally through.

I don't need to hear you say one more lie.
I don't need to hear you say your goodbyes, for one last time.
I don't need your empty promises, or your stupid alibis,
Cause after all, I'm nobody's fool,
Even though you take me for one, I'm over you.

So now you say, you want me back for good,
But you won't get no second look,
It's funny how you thought you could.
Nowadays, you don't even cross my mind,
Darling, you wish you could rewind,
To all those days, we were fine.

I don't need to hear you say, one more lie.
I don't need to hear you say your goodbyes for one last time.
I don't need your empty promises, or your stupid alibis,
Cause after all, I'm nobody's fool, even though you take me for
one,
I'm over you.

My Daddy warned me I was playing with fire.
I can't believe I even trusted you, you liar.

I don't need to hear you say, on more lie.
I don't need to hear you say your goodbyes for one last time.
I don't need your empty promises, or your stupid alibis.
Cause after all, I'm nobody's fool, even though you take me for one.
I'm over you.
