

Sink Your Teeth Into This

Conquer Divide

Hell-bent on the past, I'll become a martyr for your cause
True revenge, so here's to the friends I've lost
You took what you could get at my expense
So I'll burn the only bridge that you have left
And now you're wonderin' why you and I are through
'Cause sorry is a word that you never knew
This foundation crumbled to the dust
I got up and brushed it off
I guess you thought you were flawless, hypocrite
Talk is cheap, so put your money where your mouth is

Look at me now
Can you stand to see what I've become? (What I've become)
Follow the masses and fall
All will fall, the war is won

How does it feel to know you threw it away
As you watch my dreams come true?
How does it feel to hear 'em screamin' my name?
But they won't remember you
You put the knife right in my back
And you lost the best thing you never had, oh

Cast the first stone, we both know it was easy for you
Let it sink in, I built an empire from the stones that you threw
I maintained my pride in the face of men
Draw me out of nothingness to make me what I am
I guess you walk the path of righteousness
I hope you drown in the water under the bridge

Today
I've been searchin' for a reason why
Today you turned your back on me
You used up all my loyalty
And then lied to me (Yeah)

How does it feel to know you threw it away
As you watch my dreams come true?
How does it feel to hear 'em screamin' my name?
But they won't remember you
You put the knife right in my back
And you lost the best thing you never had, oh

There are seventy-two thousand
Five hundred and nineteen stones in my walls
Today you turned your back on me
You used up all my loyalty, loyalty
Another lie, another fake friend
Look at me now
Can you stand to see what I've become?