

Bittersweet

Conrad Sewell

Hey, hoo

I don't know why I feel this darkness hanging over me
I close my eyes and I believe I'm somewhere else
Caught in the tide and now the waves are washing over me
It's like I'm crying out and you won't come to help

There's no illusions
We've been here before
And I keep on asking for more

And I don't know everything
But I know what I need
And you don't see anything I do
Your love can be bittersweet
Killing me slowly
And now when you don't believe in me
I still believe in you

We're losing ground
And I don't think that we could start again
We're falling down
And now your touch don't feel the same

All this confusion
I'm wanting you more
But I feel you closing the door

And I don't know everything
But I know what I need
And you don't see anything I do
Your love can be bittersweet
It's killing me slowly
And now when you don't believe in me
I still believe in you

Your love has power
And it brings me to my knees
Am I chained to you forever?
Can I find a way to leave
Baby?
Your love has power
And it brings me to my knees
Am I chained to you forever?
Can I find a way to leave?

And I don't know everything
But I know what I need
And you don't see anything I do
Your love can be bittersweet
It's killing me slowly
And now when you don't believe in me
I still believe in

I still believe in you
