

I Made You A Woman

Conway Twitty

I came to your wedding
Like you asked me to
So you would be sure that all is forgotten
Between me and you.

I could tell you remember
As our eyes met
I made you a woman
And that's hard to forget.

I made you a woman
A long time ago
And I know you're not sorry
Your eyes told me so.

Oh, I wanted to touch you
I could not help myself
I made you a woman
For somebody else.

I saw your lips tremble
As you said your vows
And I knew the meaning of every tear
That fell on your gown.

No one suspected
And I'll never tell
That I made you a woman
For somebody else.

I made you a woman
A long time ago
And I know you're not sorry
Your eyes told me so.

Oh, I wanted to touch you
I could not help myself
I made you a woman
For somebody else...
