

Every Silence

Copeland

With your bright dreams through the night.
It's all straight from your grey sky.
And falling all around you.
Tongue tied and all.

I know you're waiting on an answer.
I saw her beauty overwhelming.
She keeps you draped around her shoulders.
So don't let go.

Here loning to your side.
Held back to the confines.
And every silence all around me
is screaming through the walls.
So long to your dark night.
Gives way to your daylight.
Beauty all around you.
Tongue tied in awe.