

Still In The Running

Corey Smith

I've been here before, I know the scenery well
Through the dust is the ass-end of everyone else
I flew out of the gate like a rocket
Looked like I had a win in my pocket
Hit the dirt, now I'm laying here hurtin' like hell
Telling myself...

It set me back, but I'm still in the runnin'
Still in the runnin', sure ain't the worst place to be
I fell off track, but my engine's still hummin'
There's a better day comin'. Yes, I'm still in the runnin'

I've been here before, sleeping out on the couch
Wasn't blessed with a talent for shuttin' my mouth
Think I'll wake up and make her some breakfast
Go to Jared and buy her that necklace
Try to clean up the mess that I made of tonight
Oh my...

It set me back, but I'm still in the runnin'
Still in the runnin', sure ain't the worst place to be
I fell off track, but my engine's still hummin'
There's a better day comin'. Yes, I'm still in the runnin'

I've been here before, know the scenery well
Staring up at a Bible been stuck on a shelf
Picking my sorry ass of the carpet
Putting my wandering eyes on the target
Getting back on my feet means hitting my knees
I believe...

It set me back, but I'm still in the runnin'
Still in the runnin', sure ain't the worst place to be
I fell off track, but my engine's still hummin', boy
There's a better day comin'. Yeah, I'm still in the runnin'
A better day comin'. Yes, I'm still in the runnin'
