Fall to Fly

Corrinne May

On winter days the snow would glisten like a sea of diamonds in the sun all bundled up in hat and mittens i'd be out the foor and on the run to the meadow my place beneath branches of icy lace arms held out eyes shut closed i'd lean back and just let go

And i would fall to fly

a snow white angel i'd spread my wings to the sky

how i'd glide

but soon i craved the city lights they seemed far brighter than the moon on snow turned in my wings for earthly things forgot the feel of clouds on indigo i was strong, i was proud keeping both feet on the ground i feared that love just like i feared heights i just didn't realise

'cause now you've come along like falling snow at dawn you move me and with you by my side we'll soar

we will climb straight to the heaven's skies

Yes i can fall to fly

'cause now i'm gonna give love a try

fall to fly

On winer days i wait for snow and then i know the angel flies once more fall to fly, fall to fly
