

Second Chance

Cory Morrow

There's a world out there full of love
And a world full of people say that ain't enough
Well I feel alright
And I'm not alone
Everybody's got to choose their own road to go

Nothin's sacred,
'cept for this love I've shared with you
No one's hatin'
I just hate to think that I've lost you

You are my music
My heart is longing to dance
Would you be foolish enough to give me a second chance?

There's people fighting in the street
What they're fighting for I just can't see
There seems to be no cause for love
If that's true I hold a message from the man above

(ooh) He said

Nothin's sacred,
'cept for this love he shared with you
No one's hatin'
He just hates to think he's lost you

You are his music
His heart is longing to dance
Before he's foolish enough he gave you a second chance

Yeah

It seems I'm running out of time
It's getting harder for the words to rhyme
I feel the music burning in my soul
Beating at a rhythm to the road

Nothin's sacred,
'cept for this love I've shared with you
No one's hatin'
I just hate to think that I've lost you

You are my music
My heart is longing to dance
Would you be foolish enough to give me a second chance?

A second chance