

Lost

Cory Wells

Blood for blood
And what's done is done
A fork in the road with a knife to your throat
You're a long way from home

So save yourself
You pushed me away
I've got nothing to say, and I hate myself
For turning away from the signs
They're all pointing your way

Have you become someone that you love?
The boy turns to leave and asks, "Who will I be?"
Well, you're someone to me
The brother I need
(You're everything I need)

So save yourself
There's nobody else
You pushed us away
I've got nothing to say, and I hate myself and everyone else
For turning away from the signs
They're all pointing your way
So don't make this hard
And don't fall apart now
So black in your veins, but you're golden to me
Seduced by the dark
The light's hard to find now
And I hope you're fine now

All the times that I've been lost
Thinking I was so far gone
Couldn't find my way out
Try to find something more
Death is knocking at your door
I can't find your way out

So save yourself
You pushed me away
I've got nothing to say, and I hate myself and everyone else
For turning away from the signs
They're all pointing your way
So don't make this hard
And don't fall apart now
So black in your veins, but you're golden to me
Seduced by the dark
The light's hard to find now
And I hope you're fine now
And I hope you're fine now