

No One Can Teach You How To Live

Country Joe and the Fish

You can read your books and go to school
Know all the answers and still be a fool
'Cause life's a game that has no rules
And you know it

The only questions are those you ask
The only problems are in the past
The time has come, we're here at last
In a moment

The world you hold is in your hands
You have to live to understand
What it means to be a man
Or a woman

No one can teach you how to live, you're livin' it
No one can teach you how to give, you're givin' it

And every day your days go on
You do things right and you do things wrong
But still somehow you get along
And you love it, yes you love it
