Covenant

we believe in human progress we create the servants we need we develop new ways of living
we search for power sources we need energy to survive we build on fragile ground
we feel safe in our unstable houses we fear the world outside we've become strangers at home
we went too far, we can't turn back we built too high, we can't get down we are the slaves of our servants in the shadow of our ambitions
