

Down Below

Cows

The couple down below I didn't really know They didn't get along They'd grab what they could throw They would start right after light It would go through half the night Why so, I didn't know But that was half the show

One day I'm sitting home She was out front in just her robe I thought I caught her eye I wasn't sure The day was going slow So I went down to say "hello" She said she could talk a while but then I'd have to go

She had to walk the streets So she could smoke and drink and eat
If she didn't have the dough She didn't have a home

The drinks began to flow She moved over right up close Then we heard the phone She said, "Shit, you gotta go, he's coming home"

That night it woke me up I saw the cherries popping off Somebody y'd called a squad I had to know They said he came out of nowhere And he'd found that I'd been there He spread her face around the place and then he run Now she's done

It was down below They were down below
