Deceiving Eyes

Cradle of Filth

On the night all mirrors fell silent Arid the clocks struck accord with the rain A storm swept ln with such violence The dead rose to complain The stars were ill-crossed as the weather Lost in its bitumen cloak The Angels were warring, slick with endeavour Falling like tears throughout the thickening smoke

Blood redeems, heaven torn asunder A flood of souls stream on the rolling thunder

Blood redeems. heaven torn asunder

She stirs from dreams barely three feet under

"Victoria, I come to claim my prize Stealing from the convent neath the wrath of seething skies For though you greased the palm of Satan With those moonlit silver thighs I knew the beast took second place When I looked into your eves

Your deceiving eyes Filled with lies And missed good byes And serpents hissing revelations

Your deceiving eyes They tell enough Of how I fell in love With the goddess creeping deep inside you"

And with the tumult up above him roaring Isaac sought her shallow grave As lightning bolted through the grim down-pouring rain He struck the hallowed earth again

Having torn at the soil like a man insane He threw his fists at the poisonous cosmos And from that pit of shame He bore the coffin from her sorry lot Neath trees whose eaves were knotted with rot Through ornate chapel doors, unlocked

To splinter her sarcophagus And gaze upon her face

Victoria...

"Victoria, I come to claim my prize Stealing from the convent neath the wrath of seething skies For though you greased the palm of Satan With those moonlit silver thighs Making mockery of rosaries His needs will never rival mine

I recall summer's day The Sunlight bathed your penitential scars As I sat and washed the blood away

Now your body stays And the coldness of your lips Eclipse Like the first true kiss of winter"

Pining for the dead On the stone floor spread She was shining through her winding shroud A moon amid the mad, this son of Adam had A gift for the pretty etty young nun A neeklnce wrougiht of twining snakes Two gold illicit tongues He laid at at her throut Where the rope had wrung He was burning from the furnace Of his roused desire

He wrested with temptation To be unfulfilled She was undressed for ovation Her sumptuous form, the storm revealed

And with his driven lust exploding exploding Her lashes brushed his cheeks They flickered with life, her limbs enfolding Purring, licking wicked teeth

"Victoria, I come to claim my prize Stealing from the convent neath the wrath of seething skies For though you greased the palm of Satan With those moonlit silver thighs You have left him just for me I see it in deceiving eyes

Those deceiving eyes Filled with lies And missed good byes And serpents hissing revelations

Those deceiving eyes They tell enough Of how I fell in love With the goddess re-arisen in you