

In Your Hands

Craig David

I was a young boy, I was a young boy, I was twelve years old
Could've been younger, must've been under something so magical
My heart was open, you came in right away, you took my breath away
I wish I'd always held you closer

Back in the day, yeah, I was so unaware
In a million ways, you said you'd always be there
'Cause I knew in my heart I would wake up one day
On a whole different wave and I'd be back in your, back in your hands
Back in your hands
Back in your hands
Back in your hands

You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands

I feel like a young boy, I feel like a young boy but now the gardens grown
I took the long road, I took the long way to finally find my way home
'Cause I've been praying before I go to sleep, I hear that voice inside of me
'Cause you've been with me all along

Back in the day, yeah, I was so unaware
In a million ways, you said you'd always be there
'Cause I knew in my heart I would wake up one day
On a whole different wave and I'd be back in your, back in your hands
Back in your hands
Back in your hands
Back in your hands

You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands

You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands

You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
You got the whole world in your hands
