

Overnight

Crashdiet

The same old chase in between the seasons
To live yer life like there is no reason
Some say it never makes sense
But you'll find the truth my friend

It doesn't matter if you are religious
It don't matter if yer superstitious
Some day it all will make sense
When you drown in destiny's lake

Some people can't take the truth
No wonder they ain't feeling satisfied

Overnight
Your life could turn around
You ain't the same anymore
Say goodbye
To the life that you have known
You ain't the same anymore

It doesn't matter if you're bound to make it
It don't matter if you try to fake it
Some say it never will end
Then you finally come across fate

Some people like to bury it all
And the pain remains inside

You might wake up one day
And nuthin' seems to be the same
If you're lost yer own way
Then it's nice to blame it one fat
