Down Below

Creeper

I once saw a girl who had a heart so blue,
And she smoked and drank about as much as you.
And I was hoping, baby we'd get out soon,
While the night's still young under this waning moon.

And I can't think about the way we once were,
I can't think about his fingers running through your hair.
Or what goes on in my room when I'm not there.

Down below,
I'll meet you in the river down below.

I once saw a girl who looked a lot like you,
Hair was storm cloud black, her eyes were raindrop blue.
And all I wanted baby, was to hold you.
Before the stranger comes under this waning moon.

Down below,
He'll meet you in the river down below.
Down below,
He'll meet you in the river down below.

Let me take you down.

And he'll come to see you in the window of your home,
To take you to the river down below.
And he'll come to see you in the window of your home
To take you to the river down below.
And he'll come to see you in the window of your home
To take you to the river down below.

Down below,
He'll meet you in the river down below.
Down below,
He'll meet you in the river down below.
Down below,
He'll meet you in the river down below.
