there was a fatal crash one dark day and on the ground there he laid he wasn't just a victim, he was a friend of mine and now his life's at halt now for some time his head was crushed in every way and the doctor said that there's no way that he'll live now, or live through the night now i ask God is that right with the endless sleep and unconcious nights stripping his mind oh, from his life and to this day now no one knows if he'll come or if he'll go strap down- get a grip on your life strap down- don't think that you won't die strap down- don't blame this shit on me strap down- strap down to reality his face was ripped apart and torn to shreds and the broken wind-sheild from his head seeing him lying there to die oh, it tears my stomach from inside and to this day he's still alive no one's sure when he'll die he's lived longer than people thought but now here's a lesson to be taught pay close attention to my words and now a story about my friend is what you've heard so listen to me and watch what you do because what happened to him could happen to you so strap down.....

strap down - get a grip on your life strap down - don't think you won't die strap down - don't blame this shit on me strap down - strap down to reality (repeat 4 times)
