

Heroes of the Day

Cryonic Temple

Freedom is not to be taken lightly, if demands the highest sacrifice:

The blood of the brave and the tears of those who left behind

Burning ashes on the ground, it's all that's left of my hometown

Children crying everywhere, women searching in despair

Men are slaughtered, it seems like we're doomed

Give us a minute to heal our wounds, to heal our wounds

We will sharpen our steel, and take the command

We will strike them back and break new land

Now we're falling just to rise, the enemy is going to pay the price

It's time to be; Heroes of the day

We are at war and my soul is in pain, but I stand by my belief

Never fear, never look back, heaven waits for those who'll pass

Everytime I close my eyes, scary thoughts within my mind

For higher power and higher ground, is it worth it for someone?

We will sharpen our steel, and take the command

We will strike them back and break new land

Now we're falling just to rise, the enemy is going to pay the price

It's time to be; heroes of the day

If you seek redemption, then join us

We will sharpen our steel, and take the command

We will strike them back and break new land

Now we're falling just to rise, the enemy is going to pay the price

It's time to be; Heroes of the day