

Devilcry

Crystal Lake

I'm sure as hell not ready to die
But watching the world go by
We all figure out
We say goodbye like a thousand times
Until it gets to the one that's closest to you
Even the devil cried watching his mother fly away

Well, I will never say goodbye
With all that I am
I'll bring you to life
Well, I will never say goodbye
With all that I am
I'll break down the skies

If you're taken off the earth
I have nothing left to lose
All on our own and we're all alone
Heading to the unknown

To the unknown

To watch the world fall apart in your eyes
No shred of innocence
No fervor left in me
This hatred's eating me inside my soul

If I mix a bit of water carbon salt and sulfur
Add a tad of lime and iron
Trace of phosphorus with the rest of it
Would your spirit come back to the flesh I made?

If I count to ten
Will you come right back?
If I rule the world
Would you come and take that?
If I die today for you
I'll come right back
What do I have to do to get our old life back?

When you were taken off the earth
I had nothing left to lose
All on our own and we're all alone
Heading to the unknown
So far away you've gone
Somewhere I won't belong
When you were taken off the earth
I had nothing left to lose

Accepting death brings you closure they say
Then why does this burden now crash down on me?

All the reminiscing turns to pure regret of how I left
You stranded in the mess I made
And leaving with a dream I meant to please you in the end
But now I'm left without a purpose

If I count to ten

Will you come right back?
If I rule the world
Would you come and take that?
If I die today for you
I'll come right back
What do I have to do to get our old life back?

So, I will have to say goodbye
With all that I have
I'm sure that I tried
We say goodbye to million lives
And still we take life for granted

When I'm taken off the earth
Would I have nothing left to lose
Live to move on
We weren't born alone
Heading to the unknown
So far away you've gone
Somewhere I won't belong
When I'm taken off the earth
Would I have nothing left to lose

So far away you've gone
Somewhere I won't belong