

Welcome To Castle Eughgughghgughg

Crywank

I woke up this morning wanting to cry
And when I called her I realised why
Although she were honest, she spoke with a cold tongue
I broke down in the courtyard when it came to light
She broke every promise in the space of one night
She made me hate this city, immediately
I thought she were something else
But as it turns out she were just someone else
There were four questions I wanted to ask
Do you love him yet? Do you think it will last?
Were you wearing the kecks I bought ya?
Do you ever think he thought ya resembled me in some way?
A lad left to break
Spent two years together
I thought I made her better
All my best friends told me I should forget her
But I never could, I thought that I should would I need to stop thinking about the things I'll never do again
And just be glad I did em, and I'm so glad I did em
First love dun't mean best love And best friends may not mean b est friends forever
And mates don't mean best mates forever
But they both mean at one point
Are you fucking recording this
Someone, someone did care