

Canopy

Crywolf

You'll take what's left of my body
While the voices tell you how to feel
You'll call it home, you'll build your house here
Under the canopy of my broken skull

My eyes fill with fear when you come around
Hollow bones breathing slow through this empty ground
Fill this hole in my head with your solemn vows
Melodies ringing out with a broken sound