

And I'll envelop you when all is said and done
I will know you I will feel your every touch
And in the wild I can hear your gentle call
I could know you, I could show you I'm enough

And I'll devour you and finally know your love
I will taste it in your muscle cords
Feel it in the way you fill me
When the saints of hell surround me all at once
I will tell them what you told me
"Everything deserves to live on once its gone"

And I'll envelop you when all is said and done
I will hold you, I will feel your every touch
And in the quiet I can hear you like a flood
I could know you, I could feel you in my lungs

And you'll devour me and finally know this love
You will taste it in these muscle cords
Feel it in the way I feel you
And when the saints of hell surround you all at once
You just tell them what I told you
"Everything deserves to live on once its gone"
