

Gloves on tight against her skin
Glasses on let this begin
This girl is ready for some sin
White coat that reflects the light
Eyes so clear and far too bright
This girl is ready fight or flight

I watched her tear your heart
Right out of your chest and it made me start
To think that maybe it's not fair
Though I know you're not aware
With her hands all over your lungs
And your vessels in her palms
A smile lights her face
Bodies all over the place

Won't be found in the dark
She could never play that part
Does this girl even have a heart
She has not quietened yet
For a girl who has many secrets
This book hasn't been opened yet

I watched her tear your heart
Right out of your chest and it made me start
To think that maybe it's not fair
Though I know you're not aware
With her hands all over your lungs
And your vessels in her palms
A smile lights her face
Bodies all over the place

That's how it began
Wipe your face and wash your hands
That's how it began for the girl with red hands
That's how it began
Wipe your face and wash your hands
That's how it began for the girl with red hands

She'll never show, makes me suspicious don't you know
She'll never tell just how far she fell
She'll never show, makes me suspicious don't you know
She'll never tell just how far she fell

I watched her tear your heart
Right out of your chest and it made me start
To think that maybe it's not fair
Though I know you're not aware
With her hands all over your lungs
And your vessels in her palms
A smile lights her face
Bodies all over the place