

No Universe Without Harmony

CunninLynguists

I mean, to put it simple and plain we're all vibration
All of us

You know that flicker in the eye? It's rhythm from the sky
And light was born before the world with all of you and I
We made from that underneath the faucet and the filling
When the universe is speaking just to listen, need the healing
Bow your heads, let me say a prayer for the Death
Sound is more than hearing, may you fill it to its depth
Music is divine let me climb inside your mind
Mystic ain't consistent wasn't cryptic before time
Existed to mention humankind can't visit
How is it we receiving these vibrations from beyond?
We can't see it like light and morning time
It's more like a magician waving wand
It shall remain after we dead and gone
In all the noise we made is part of lexicon
This phenomenon, it fills the spirit
If you sit in perfect silence you can hear it

There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony

Yo

We suffer from separation postpartum Birthing a Nation
Seeking change like the weather for the worse or for the better
Assumptions and accusations replace perspective and patience
Dropping slurs on your neighbor, plenty bleeping four letters
Supremacists fight for order, anarchists fight for chaos
Most the folks I know they out here fighting for a day job
Some just want watch on the sidelines
Murders in hi-def claiming they colorblind
Blocking out the hue that's uncomfortable to you ain't a condition
There's no corrective lenses for decisions
And if that cuts too deep there ain't no stitching that incision
Rigamortis in thinking keeps you stuck in one position
See the beauty in difference, race, color or creed
First step of growth is simply planting the seed
You hunger for peace it's something u gotta feed
You verse the universe, go ahead and concede, believe

There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony
There is no universe without harmony
