

My Promise Kept

currents

No words can describe this feeling
But this three word phrase I have come to repeat
Is not enough
I'm surrounding my mind with these thoughts of you
It is in everything that I see, a mirror image that is staring
back at me
It is in everything that I see, a mirror image that is staring
back at me
Each and everyday I am counting away, til the day I have until I have to see your face and say
This is my life and I want to see it through I want to see it through
I want to see if through
As if everything was meant to be
I cannot escape what has become of me
But it will never take it's hold, it will never take it's hold and let me free
This is a bond that will never be torn
We are an undying flame, that will always burn
We will never be torn
We are an undying flame, that will always burn
But through this journey I have lost your hand
I know that someday soon, you will understand
That we were meant to be
I'll keep fighting for you
I'll keep fighting for you
No matter has been done
This is truth that I have known all along
Since the day that we met
And until you return
This is my, My promise kept
A promise meant for you