

Heaven Sent

Curtis Grimes

I never knew that Corpus Christi was so dang far away
'Til the night I fell for a brown-eyed brunette beauty by the bay
I-37 South's a road map down to the place I long to be
While I write these songs and stake my claim to make a name in Tennessee

She looks good in her scrubs and prescription glasses
Ain't too many girls who can rock that fashion
With a smile that can stop my heart from across the room

She's everything I could ever want
All the little things she does turn me on
And layin' there starin' back at me, dressed down all tucked in
Aw that's somethin'
I wouldn't trade for nothin'
I swear she's Heaven sent, makes me a better man here on earth

The face of an angel
And a heart made out of gold
Well God must've smiled when he sent her my way
To mend this broken soul
She's the second best thing, nothin' less it seems
From the one who put her here
It's all part of His plan, now I finally understand
Why it's taken all these years
I could spend all day wrapped up in the way
Her eyes are holdin' on to me
And that look on her face when I call her babe
Is worth a lifetime of memories

She's everything I could ever want
All the little things she does turn me on
And layin' there starin' back at me, dressed down all tucked in
Aw that's somethin'
I wouldn't trade for nothin'
I swear she's Heaven sent, makes me a better man here on earth

Now I know she won't admit it
But she's the answer to my prayers
And I won't ever forget it
When I thank the man upstairs

For everything I could ever want
All the little things she does turn me on
And layin' there starin' back at me, dressed down all tucked in
Aw that's somethin'
I wouldn't trade for nothin'
I swear she's Heaven sent, makes me a better man here on earth

So I'll cherish it
For the rest of my time spent
Here on earth

She's Heaven sent
