Every Time You Cry

Curtis Stigers

Never before have I seen you look so blue Can't find the cure and nothing comforts you The light at the end of the tunnel Doesn't shine at the end of the day Every time you cry Save up all your tears, I will be your rainbow When they disappear Wash away the pain 'til you smile again I will be the laughter in your eyes Every time you cry Every time you cry Time has a way of wounding what has healed What can I say, I know just how you feel Your soul is dark and troubled Like a river running wild Every time you cry Save up all your tears, I will be your rainbow When they disappear Wash away the pain 'til you smile again I will be the one who dries your eyes Every time you cry Every time you cry Well you know that's what I'm here for And I will give you when you need more There'll be no hesitation, I will reap no reward
