so what so fuck what so what if i stay up late enough something might happen and if i drink just enough i may be happy if i think just enough i'll see that nothing really matters if i stay up late enough something might happen to be to try the girls and guys to see to cry as we watch them fry to flee goodbye while the innocent try the plea the sigh try and indemnify with dignity and thought crucify the lot the bought and sold unraveling the knot all boiling cold smoldering in rot the stories been told although we forgot there has to be something there has to be someone out there there has to be a answer a prescription a prayer

if i stay up late enough
something might happen
and if i drink just enough i may be happy
if i think just enough i'll see that nothing really matters
if i stay up late enough
something might happen

so what