

I Had Your Back

Cyhra

What if all that you see was an infinite line
And if all that you are was a coded design

I had your back but who had mine
I broke the core and ran that line
I'd keep you safe and hold you tight
How can we know our memories align

What if nothing is real and the cipher would shun
What's the chances of waking while dreaming alive

As they keep track on what I see
I set you free

I had your back but who had mine
I broke the core and ran that line
I'd keep you safe and hold you tight
How can we know our memories align
I had your back but who had mine
I broke the core and ran that line
I'd keep you safe and hold you tight
How can we know our memories align

I had your back but who had mine
I broke the core and ran that line
I'd keep you safe and hold you tight
How can we know our memories align
I had your back but who had mine
I broke the core and ran that line
I'd keep you safe and hold you tight
How can we know our memories align