Missing You

D'Sound

What is love
That question seems so old
While I'm sitting in this room
I recall some answers that I've been told
Just so that I forget that you're not here

And I, I wanted to walk alone
Guided by my own company
I sigh, and of course you cannot hear
But I know you know

That I am missing you
And that's the only thing I know
That I am missing you
And I just can't let go

If I cried
That wouldn't help at all
It would only make my complexion turn grey
And I tell myself that I don't care
Just like a stubborn child

But I am missing you
And that's the only thing I know
That I am missing you
And I just can't let go

'Cause I am missing you
And that's the only thing I know
That I am missing you
I just can't let, no I just can't let go
I just can't let go
