

Sky

d4vd

I failed you once, but I swear I won't do it again
Sometimes it's hard for a lost cause to let you in It's cold inside, but the outside's hot as it's ever been
But I'll stand in the heat while the sun drips on my skin

I'm hanging over the edge
Would you give me hand?

Now the sky is falling, sky is falling down
And I need someone, need someone now
I missed you, I missed you somehow
Never meant to, but I had to let you down

The way you look at me turns water to wine
I just need one more reason to compromise

I'm hanging over the edge
Was this a part of the plan?

Now the sky is falling, sky is falling down
And I need someone, need someone now
I missed you, I missed you somehow
Never meant to, but I had to let you down

We're like the tides and the moon 'cause you're pulling me in It's like the start of a fire caught in the wind
I don't need you to lean on me ever again
I just want you to be my friend

Now the sky is falling down
And I need someone around
I missed you, I missed you somehow
Never meant to, but I had to let you down

I'm underneath the tree, the sky is falling down on me
And nobody seems to believe that something strange is happening
Feels like I'm running out of time and breath and energy
But as the world is crumbling, you're still the only one I need