

Holding On

Dabin

Divided
Close together on different sides of this
Trying to line up, just can't find
The missing pieces and the glue
That we would need to intertwine again
So goodbye again
To the one that I relied on the most
In the moment, wish I tried
When you were leaving, hate that I
Gave no reason we should fight for this

Now there's an empty space on your side of the bed
I filled it with strangers since you left
I've been running in my sleep
Just to find you in my arms

I keep on holding on
I keep on holding on
Just to find you in my arms
I keep on holding on

I keep on holding on
Just to find you in my arms
I keep on holding on

On a tight rope
Clinging on to every ounce of hope
Like missing you is all I know
The very thought of letting go
Is way too much, I just can't handle it
So goodbye again
To the one that I relied on the most
In the moment, wish I tried
When you were leaving, hate that I
Gave no reason we should fight for this

Now there's an empty space on your side of the bed
I filled it with strangers since you left
I've been running in my sleep
Just to find you in my arms

I keep on holding on
I keep on holding on
Just to find you in my arms
I keep on holding on

I keep on holding on
Just to find you in my arms
I keep on holding on