

Home

Dabin

City lights
Fold in the blinds but you're all that I see when I
Close my eyes
Wondering how you slipped away
Maybe I'm out of touch
Or maybe I said too much
A paradise lost in the urban exhaust
Wish you could have stayed

Tell me again, was it fate that stole my soul
When you left with the wind down that cold and lonely road?
Stripped of our leaves, an Eden overthrown
Caught in a dream, where the streetlights fade and all I know i s

Home
You're all I've ever known

Kerosene
The forest in flames, only ashes remain
In this fever dream
Nothing's the way it used to be
Maybe we're growing up
Or maybe our time is up
The seasons went by and our innocence died
Like the fallen trees

Tell me again, was it fate that stole my soul
When you left with the wind down that cold and lonely road?
Stripped of our leaves, an Eden overthrown
Caught in a dream, where the streetlights fade and all I know i
s

Home
You're all I've ever known

You're all I've ever known
You're all I've ever known