

Shut Up

Daði Freyr

Shut up!

Waiting in the car
'Cause I didn't wanna see anybody
I have to get over my nerves
Every time I talk to somebody new

I'd like to think I'm extroverted
But honestly it comes and goes
Sometimes got me disconcerted
So I keep telling myself

Over and over to shut up
Nobody's gonna care as much as I do
Shut up, please
The feeling isn't going away
It's something I should get used to
But it's hard to get used to

Keeping to myself
I don't feel like speaking to anybody
Staring at my phone
To avoid looking in anybody's eyes

I'd like to think I'm extroverted
But I don't know if it's true
Might be easily averted
But I never know

Not the biggest problem
But something I feel I need to get over
When I start overthinking it
I constantly remind my brain

Over and over to shut up
Nobody's gonna care as much as I do
Shut up, please
The feeling isn't going away
It's something I should get used to
But it's hard to get used to

It's not the biggest problem
But something I feel I need to get over
When I start overthinking it
I need to stop and tell my brain

Over and over to shut up
Nobody's gonna care as much as I do (No, no no, no, no)
Shut up, please
The feeling isn't going away
It's something I should get used to
But it's hard to get used to

Shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up Shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up
Shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up

Shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up, shut up
Shut up!
