

Time Machine

Daisy The Great

Are you listening to the clocks in this house?
They are growling at me
They are growling at me
Saying, how can it be?
That the whole world is falling
Apart

The sky is burning
No more need to hurry
We were right to worry
We were right to worry
The birds are gone now
The time has come now
Just close your eyes now
Just close your eyes now
The sea is crying
The moon is sighing
It's terrifying
It's terrifying
It's all around us
The end has crowned us
The star has found us

I once read about a time machine
They learned to teach electrons
To go back to where they started
Should we go back to where we started?
Maybe we could build a time machine
And put it in my old car
Fill it up with dirty water
We could try a little harder

If I go back, if I go back
Will I do it all the same again?
If I go back, if I go back
Will I do it all the same again?
If I go back, if I go back
Will I do it all the same again?
If I go back, if I go back
Will I do it all the same?

I once read about a time machine
They learned to teach electrons
To go back to where they started
Should we go back to where we started?
Maybe we could build a time machine
And put it in my old car
Fill it up with dirty water
We could try a little harder
