

21 Days

Damhnait Doyle

21 days to break a habit
21 days to reset the switch
Back to when I didn't have a cold side
Back before you turned me into this
Got those pictures in a book hidden somewhere
From when we used to smoke cigarettes
I have to ask my friends to remind me
How good it used to be 'cause I forget

I'm not asking you to change
Or be something you are not
If we keep going like we're going
The least insignificant thing you'll break will be my heart

I know I told you it's all your fault
I believed it in my heart to be true
Sparring in the shadows of your dark side
I never saw how I was hurting you

I'm not asking you to change
Or be something you are not
If we keep going like we're going
The least insignificant thing you'll break will be my heart

21 days to break a habit
21 days to reset the switch
Back to when I didn't have a cold side
Back before you turned me into this
Back before I loved you more
And I couldn't wait for the taste
Of your kisses sweet like nicotine
Now most nights they just seem like a waste

21 days to break a habit
21 days to reset the switch
Back to when I didn't have a cold side
Back before you turned me into this