Superhero

Dami Im

You smile so gently
Speak soft and kindly
No one would realize what's underneath
But there's so much more to you
Than what they can see
I know you've go the power of a thousand athletes

It's okay to feel confused sometimes
Don't forget that you still shine

You're the night sky full of stars
You are infinitely brighter than just who you think you are
You're a fighter full of scars
And they all tell the story of what you've overcome so far
You're my superhero
You're my superhero

I've seen you praying [?] each morning
Beating the sunrise just so you could survive
The wounds on your body, no one else would believe them
But you walk through the valley of a thousand miles

It's okay to feel confused sometimes
Don't forget that you still shine

You're the night sky full of stars
You are infinitely brighter than just who you think you are
You're a fighter full of scars
And they all tell the story of what you've overcome so far
You're my superhero
You're my superhero

High, high above me you look lovely in the sky
My, my, my, my superhero watch me [?] as you fly
In the night sky full of stars
You are infinitely brighter than just who you think you are
You're a fighter full of scars (Ah)
And they all tell the story of what you've overcome so far (Ah)

You're the night sky full of stars
You are infinitely brighter than just who you think you are
You're a fighter full of scars
And they all tell the story of what you've overcome so far
You're my superhero
You're my superhero
You're my superhero
You're my superhero, superhero, oh
